The Inside Story

The Atomic Energy Commissions' new budget is expected to have little effect on Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. For the story see page two.

Mrs. Dominick Richenbach points to damages on a door that has been partially repaired following vandalism at her place of business. The wall to the right shows damage after the burglars tried to ram their car into the building.

Golf Land

A tale of tragedy

"I don't know where else to turn. Can't you help me?"

With that plea, a young homemaker and, with her husband, operator of a popular Valley business poured out a story of burglaries and wanton destruction that threatens to destroy that recreation center, and perhaps destroy also its two young owners.

Jackie and Dominick Rickenbach launched "Golf Land" on the Arroyo Road just south of Livermore two years ago. It is the kind of low-cost golf course that appeals to so many of the Valley's younger families. It has also presented a strange allure to those young people bent on destroying that business.

"In 18 months we have been burglarized ten times," Jackie Rickenbach told this newspaper. "They have smashed all the windows, even backed cars into the side of the building. Even though we no longer keep money or anything else of value in the place, they continue to break in, and destroy whatever they find."

What is most frustrating to this hard-working pair is "the failure of the police to do anything, anything at all." Located "just across the street from the Livermore city limits," the Rickenbachs have appealed both to the Livermore police and the sheriff's department. "We ask them to just drive by occasionally, and flash their light on the place. It would let the kids know that somebody is watching."

But the Livermore police say Golf Land is out of their jurisdiction, and therefore "none of our business." The sheriff's department "sent one officer one time, but since then they won't even return our calls, and we never, never see a patrol car."

Products of Pleasanton schools, the Rickenbachs are a popular young family, working "a very long week" in order to keep their small business going. But vandalism and burglaries have just about destroyed their business, and threatens to destroy their dream.

"The suburbs are getting a reputation for crime just like the big cities," Jackie Rickenbach says. "I wonder if the people realize this, and what they intend to do about ft."

'Her death was not in vain...'

After his classmate's funeral in Dublin, the boy swallowed 50 headache pills.

He went off into a field and lit up a cigarette laced with PCP—"crystal"—the horse tranquilizer his classmate had smoked before she had committed suicide.

He figured he might as well die himself.

Then he got to thinking about Denise Gaschk's suicide. She'd been a good friend and a nice girl, pretty, bright, well liked. A good home life, no overwhelming problems.

Why did she want to die?

He looked at the joint in his hand. "KJ"—"Krystal Joint," as Valley kids call it. Makes you feel good, relaxed, uncaring—at first. Then, it can make you feel depressed, afraid, down and out.

The boy made a decision then and there to stop killing himself on KJ and, instead, to join a growing crusade in Dublin against the poisonous drug.

He went home and told his mother what he'd swallowed, then asked her to drive him to Highland Hospital in Oakland for treatment. During the week he spent there receiving psychological help as well as life-saving medical treatment, he wrote this letter to the dead girl's mother:

I'm writing you this letter because I want you to know that Denise's death was not in vain.

It made me realize that I do have a problem with drugs and kind of gave me the courage to seek help.

I want to thank you for showing concern about me and all the other people that have the same problem. I just wish that maybe Denise could have talked to someone about it before she did what she did.

... I just hope that people will catch on and begin to realize that life isn't one big party and that the drugs they're playing with are more dangerous than they think. I also hope they learn to cope with their problems without using drugs as a crutch. It made me realize that what I was doing was not the way to handle my problems.

I just want to say thank you

That penciled letter from Highland Hospital was heartening to Mel and Laura Gaschk, bereaved parents of 17-year-old Denise. The couple are determined leaders of a fight to rid the Valley of PCP (Phencyclidine), the drug so easy for high-school students to get and so deadly in its depressing after-effects.

One by one, Valley teens are turning against dealers of the drug that is blamed for killing one of their friends, Mrs. Gaschk reports. "They're telling pushers they'd better stop selling it or they'll turn them in," she said.

"The word is out: Get out of our Valley and out of our lives."

She estimates half the teens in the Valley have at least tried PCP. Local students buy it by the gram, usually at Weeks Park in Hayward, then mix the crystallized drug with parsley or marijuana and sell it at Mapes Park in Dublin, on school campuses and at other lightly patrolled hangouts for $5 per cigarette.

The fact it's mixed with parsley has earned the Valley the nickname, "Parsley Valley."

Pleasanton mother Marge Longnecker is another enthusiastic crusader against PCP. She knows the names of at least three students who sell crystal joints to local students, and says one girl professes not to care a bit that the joint she sold Denise Gaschk apparently led to the girl's death.

From Mrs. Longnecker's point of view, the police are doing their best to send dealers to jail, but the courts pass out too-light sentences.

Meanwhile, Sheriff's Department narcotics police are known as "the Blue Meanies" among teen-agers because they allegedly rough up both boys and girls suspected of using drugs.

Mrs. Longnecker, who has three children, would like to see more recreational opportunities for Valley youth. In Dublin, for example, it's a question of going to Shannon Park and having the recreation people "breathe down your neck" or loitering in groups and being sent on your way by the police — or hanging out at a drug trading post like Mapes Park.

So, instead they meet at someone's home, preferably where the parents aren't home. Then, "They turn down the lights and blow out their minds."

The drug in question contains high-pressure vapors that create hallucinations for a brief period before the "anesthesia" period that appears to the observer as drunkenness.

The base is ether, with the tranquilizer bromobenzine (also a base for glue) added. Mercury salts are also mixed in, and they can cause corrosive damage to the digestive tract.

The drug is commercially manufactured to tranquilize large animals like horses or cattle. As with any tranquilizer, an overdose can paralyze the breathing apparatus and can kill.

The physical risk in using PCP is great, but even greater is the risk of depression leading to death.

There have been numerous suicide attempts, and probably several suicides as well, among local youth in recent years because of PCP.

Now, according to several parents, teen-agers are beginning to clip newspaper articles, examine clinical information about the drug, and unite against those who are still selling it.

"The parents want to get rid of it. But, as I told some kids after Denise's funeral," relates one mother:

"The only ones who can get rid of this are you yourselves."

City may halt water payments

PLEASANTON — The city council may move Monday night to withhold any further payment of water connection fees to Zone 7 until the excess fees the city claims it has paid since 1972 have been reimbursed.

Zone 7 bases its connection fee on water meter size and claims since the City of Pleasanton requires a meter that is larger than the five-eighths inch standard meter size, the connections fees should be higher.

The city changed from the standard meter in 1972 to a meter that is slightly larger because it aided residents who live in low water pressure areas to receive adequate supplies of water.

The meter, however, city officials claim, has no effect on the amount of water used by residents and therefore, the connection fees Pleasantonites pay should not be 50 percent higher than those paid in Dublin or Livermore.

City officials believe Zone 7's use of meter size "as the sole criteria for a graduated fee schedule has no rational basis" and are seeking refunds of $225 of excess fees paid by 860 Pleasanton homeowners (a total of $192,000), and a reduction in the fee schedule.

The council's first attempt to convince Zone 7 of this "gross error" was rebuffed and Monday night, the council is expected to make a second request for reconsideration.

If Zone 7 does not agree to refund the excess payments, staff is recommending the council "withhold any further payment of connection fees" until the refunds are paid.

In another water-related matter, the council will be asked to approve an interim water rate increase to cover a projected $240,000 deficit over the next 18 months.

That deficit is the result of increased water rates charged by Zone 7 and an increase in the amount of water used by the city.

In a report to the council, Assistant to the City Manager Jim Walker notes the city has not increased its water rates in nearly five years, while the "cost of supplying water during this five-year period has increased substantially."

In addition to seeking the interim rate increase, staff is also recommending preparation of a major water rate study.

The proposed increase would amount to a 12-cent hike for the first 500 cubic feet of water, 10 cents for the next 500 cubic feet, nine cents for the next 1,000 cubic feet and a seven-cent increase for anthing over 2,000 cubic feet.

Council will also give further consideration to the expenditure of $221,000 of federal housing and community development funds.

Staff is recommending the money, which will become available over the next three years, be spent on replacement of water lines in the Harris Acres area and extension of Peters Street from Division Street to Rose Avenue.

The council will also consider an application from Jerry Bindi for a holding tank to accomodate the restaurant he is proposing on St. Marys Street.

The Monday night meeting will convene at 8 p.m. at the Pleasanton Justice Court. The Pleasanton Redevelopment Agency will hold a short meeting at 7:55 p.m. Monday.

Precinct breakdown

In the wake of the Assembly race

Democrat Floyd Mori and Republican Guy Puccio won last Tuesday's 15th Assembly District primary because they received strong support in all areas of the district.

Conversely, it appears from officials precinct breakdowns of that election, the valley cost Democrat Bill Vandenburgh and Republican George Oakes the election.

Mori, Puccio and American Independent Party candidate Lonnie Moore will vie for the seat vacated by the death of Carlos Bee in a March 4 run-off.

The district is two-thirds Democratic in registration but fully three-quarters of the 32,887 voters in the primary voted Democratic, leaving the Republicans with an uphill battle in March.

Mori, the mayor of Pleasanton, received 5,874 votes, nearly one-sixth of the total ballots cast. He took the valley handily, compared to his closest Democratic challenger, Marc Elliot's 1,928 votes.

Vandenburgh came in fourth in the valley, with 1,517 votes, and that appeared to be the key area, since Mori's strength in the Hayward-Castro Valley-Union City area was sufficient to make him the second top vote-getter among Democrats on that side of the hill.

In that area, Vandenburgh received 4,015 votes and Mori totaled 2,397.

Breaking it down further, Vandenburgh took the Hayward and Eden Township areas, with Mori second, while Dick Oliver, a Union City councilman, showed his strength in Union City and the unincorporated Washington Township area. Vandenburgh came in second behind Oliver in Union City, while Mori polled the second most votes in the Washington Township area.

On the Republican side, Puccio topped his opponent George Oakes in every area but Hayward and Washington Township. In the valley, Puccio received 2,246 votes, compared to Oakes' 1,115. Oakes had only a slight margin in the Hayward-Castro Valley-Union City area, with 2,484 votes to Puccio's 2,385, and again, the valley appears to have been the key.

Puccio was the top vote getter in Livermore, with 1,318 votes, topping all Democrats and his Republican opponent.

Using figures for the top eight vote-getters in the field of 15, the breakdowns for all areas was as follows:

— Pleasanton (4,523 votes cast): Mori, 1,789; Puccio, 669; Elliot, 483; Joyce LeClaire, 482; Oakes, 473; Vandenburgh, 362; Oliver, 92; Douglas Morrisson, 24.

— Livermore (6,262 votes cast): Puccio, 1,318; Mori, 1,229; Elliot, 1,201; Vandenburgh, 974; LeClaire, 554; Oakes, 499; Oliver, 100; Morrisson, 51.

— Unincorporated valley areas (1,497 votes cast): Mori, 385; Puccio, 259; Elliot, 244; Vandenburgh, 181; LeClaire, 154; Oakes, 143; Oliver, 30; Morrisson, 18.

— Hayward (9,767 votes cast): Vandenburgh, 2,101; Oakes, 1,346; Mori, 1,176; Puccio, 1,025; Elliot, 937; Oliver, 723; Morrisson, 456; LeClaire, 393.

— Union City (2,568 votes cast): Oliver, 765; Vandenburgh, 357; Elliot, 250; Puccio, 232; Oakes, 216; Mori, 179; LeClaire, 136; Morrisson, 52.

— Eden Township (7,645 votes cast): Vandenburgh, 1,538; Puccio, 1,087; Mori, 1,023; Elliot, 932; Oakes, 873; Oliver, 603; Morrisson, 499; LeClaire, 115.

— Washington Township (209 votes cast): Oakes, 49; Puccio, 41; Oliver, 29; Mori, 19; Vandenburgh, 19; Elliot, 15; LeClaire, 10; Morrisson, 4.

A total of 33 percent of the valley voters turned out for the primary election, while 38 percent of citizens in the Hayward-Castro Valley-Union City area cast their ballots.

Bank of America branching out

Bank of America is opening a second office in Pleasanton on West Las Positas Boulevard near Hopyard Road. Construction has begun on the 3,200 square foot modular structure and the $200,000 facility is expected to be completed by April 20.

City seeks census takers

PLEASANTON — The city is seeking more than 60 workers to conduct the special census that will begin March 6.

City officials are hoping the census will turn up 400 to 500 more residents in Pleasanton than the state totals show, thus incearing the city's share of gasoline, cigarette and motor vehicle taxes.

In addition to counting people, the census takers will also ask residents a list of 10 questions, dealing with occupation, place of employment, education, race, income and type of housing.

The questionnaire will also seek to determine how strongly citizens would support a city park bond measure by asking the amount of tax rate increase they would tolerate.

Residents wishing to apply to become census takers must be U.S. citizens and at least 18 years of age. They must also be physically able to do the work and willing to work at least six hours a day, plus one Saturday and some evenings.

Census enumerators and crew leaders will be paid between $2.24 and $2.60 an hour. The project is expected to tae five to ten days.

Applications are available at the Civic Center, 200 Bernal Ave. Deadline for submitting applications is Feb. 21. Testing for applicants will take place on March 3. For further information, contact city hall at 846-3202.

Results from the special census will be available around mid-May.

Demos unite for March run-off

HAYWARD — The hatchets were ostensibly buried Friday morning as 15th Assembly District Democrats closed ranks and put on a united front in preparation for the March 4 run-off for the seat left vacant by the death of Carlos Bee.

Mayor Floyd Mori of Pleasanton and Speaker of the California Assembly Leo McCarthy gathered with seven of the unsuccssful Democratic challengers at a Hayward Restaurant to pledge support for Mori.

Mori, 35, will be running against Republican Guy Puccio, 34, a Castro Valley real estate appraiser and American Independent Party candidate Lonnie Moore, 59, of Hayward in the March 4 election.

McCarthy said there "will be attempts" by Mori's Republican opponent to "suggest division in the Democratic ranks." Indicating the gathering of Democrats, McCarthy added, "This is obviously not the case. This is a time when we will all join behind Floyd Mori to make sure he's the new assemblyman."

The speaker expressed confidence Mori would pull Democrats and "a number of Republicans too" in the March 4 race.

Mori thanked his unsuccessful challengers for pledging their support and said he felt "fortunate to be the one who won because all the candidates were very well qualified."

Mori promised a "Democratic victory in March and a people victory."

Among those present Friday were Bill Vandenburgh, Joyce LeClaire, Marc Elliot, Josh Jelincic, Thomas Kendall, Dick Oliver and George Glavor. McCarthy said the other four Democrats in the race, Leo Howell, Douglas Morrisson, Arnold Thompson and Rudy Triviso, had also pledged their support for Mori but were unable to attend Friday's gathering.

Police issue firearm warning

PLEASANTON — Increasing complaints from citizens and a backload of reports at police headquarters has prompted the department once again to publicize current laws concerning firearms and and their use within the city.

Pleasanton Municipal Code weapon (rifle, shotgun, handgun, or air gun) within the city limits.

All open fields within this area are part of the city, police emphasize.

Before hunting or shooting in the area contact the Pleasanton Police Department or the Alameda County Sheriff's Department, Santa Rita.

Police also note that it is a misdemeanor for a minor to possess a concealable firearm (loaded or not) without written permission of a parent or guardian, or being accompanied by a parent or guardian.

It is illegal as well to carry a concealed weapon upon a person or in a vehicle, and is a misdemeanor to carry any firearm loaded even in an auto while in a public place or on any public street.

A weapon is considered "loaded" if there is live ammunition attached to it in any way.

Atomic budget changes: little effect on LLL

If the proposed fiscal year 1976 budget is any indication, the transformation of the Atomic Energy Commission into the Energy Research and Development Agency (ERDA) will not damage the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory at all.

The new budget, however, does not include appropriations for applied energy technologies, which in light of the present energy crisis, should also jump accordingly.

The overall totals are some 15 per cent higher than last year, highlighted by a 90 per cent jump in funds allocated to the laser isotope separation program.

In fiscal 1976, $5.9 million will be allocated to the program, which separates uranium 235 from uranium 238, a vital step in producing fuel for nuclear reactors.

The computer center for Controlled Thermonuclear Reactions (CTR) got a 75 per cent jump in appropriations, up to $2.8 million and the overall CTR program received a 45 per cent raise to $19.0 million.

The Biomedical Division jumped 23.5 per cent over fiscal 1975 to $6.3 million and the laser fusion program also received a healthy boost — 13.5 per cent.

The weapons division will get a 10.2 per cent jump to $108 million for fiscal 1976 while work for other agencies will only go up by 3.6 per cent in the coming year.

Overall, the laser program will receive 25 per cent more than it did in fiscal 1975 while the CTR program will get just under a 50 per cent boost.

And of course, it can be anticipated that the funds allocated for Applied Energy Technologies will be considerably more than in 1975 so the final LLL budget could be as much as 17 per cent above fiscal 1975.

The Value of a Community Bank

The end of 1974 and the beginning of 1975 gives us an opportunity to review some of the contributions to the life of the valley which have been made this past year by The First National Bank of Pleasanton, a unique locally owned banking organization which has been the leading financial institution in this area for over sixty-four years. This bank, having its roots deep in the life of the valley, has consistently followed a program of strong support for local organizations and activities. Some of the major contributions of 1974 are as follows:

- Provided employment for 49 valley residents who returned an annual payroll of $300,000 into the valley's economy. This number included nine college age students who were employed during the summer months.
- In 1974, at a time when money was in short supply, the bank increased its loans by 1.2 million dollars with $400,000 of that going into the real estate market, mostly for home purchases.
- Paid out almost ½ million dollars in interest to depositors, most of whom are valley residents.
- Financed construction of the new Pleasanton Civic Center Building providing greatly improved working quarters for the city staff and the beginning of a new civic center of which we can all be proud.
- Sponsored the Pleasanton Rose Show which has been held annually for 36 years since its founding by FIRSTBANK.
- Effected the purchase of $200,000 in local school bonds plus $40,000 in other local bonds, which served to improve and advance the community.
- Sponsored many youth and adult athletic teams and activities including baseball, basketball, soccer, football and swimming.
- Contributed to many charitable funds and civic improvement projects such as the Mardi Gras, Amador Valley Scholarships, Inc., Twin Valley YMCA and Boy Scouts, Livermore-Amador Symphony Association and many others.
- In addition, bank personnel take an active part in community life through various civic and church activities.

The Directors, Officers and staff of FIRSTBANK are extremely pleased to be a part of this exceptional community and are proud of the opportunity to have a part in its advancement and development.
By doing your banking with FIRSTBANK you are assisting in the continuation of these kinds of local support.

Dr. Clyde Hawley, a local pediatrician noted for his work in diet and allergy and the effects of food additives;

Dr. Phyllis Kaplan, an associate professor at California State University, Hayward, and a consultant to area school districts, an advocate of behavior modification and author of a booklet, "It's Fun To Teach."

The program is free to the public and is being sponsored by the Livermore Adult Education Department, Special Education Division, Early Childhood Education and the Title I program. Four more talks are planned for successive Wednesday evenings.

Travel Talk

by Rick Corbett

Favorite travel spots come and go in popularity. One season it may be Europe, the next the Caribbean, the following Australia, then Asia and so on. This is not to say that travelers don't go to all of those places every year by any means. But, I am talking about the season's most popular.

As most of you know Hawaii is the all time leader in popularity on the west coast. It presents a different atmosphere from home, yet is not a long flight away. And it fits into most budgets.

The most talked about package currently is the Fly-Drive tour of Hawaii. You fly to the islands, then rent a car at the airport at flat rate (no limit on mileage, you just pay for the gas) and you have complete freedom and flexibility on your Hawaiian vacation.

You may leave any day and come back any day. However, Monday through Thursday departures and arrivals can save a couple up to $60.

You can choose a resort hotel or condominium type with cooking facilities. The choice is up to you.

The Western Airlines "The Islander" features extra legroom and kneeroom in all Coach and Economy seats — just as in First Class. Every passenger on every flight will enjoy champagne with Western's compliments. And now, personalized DC-10 service on many Hawaii flights.

Drop by our office, look over some brochures, and let us help you plan the program just for you. Our services are always free to our customers.

Sandia's E.E.O. officer

Attentive ear for women and minorities

By EDNA WEHRSDORFER

When a woman says she's not being paid a salary equal to that of a man with the same job, it becomes Gertrude Williams' business.

Mrs. Williams is Sandia's Equal Employment Opportunity coordinator. Her job is to act as a sounding board for women and minorities, and to make the community aware of the benefits available for these groups at Sandia.

She's been on the job since August, promoted from within the organization.

Until 1971, there had been an E.E.O. division at Sandia. It was one of the divisions eliminated in the consolidation caused by a budget curtailment, and its work was taken over by the personnel division.

We always felt a need for more emphasis on the function," said Don Wagner, supervisor of personnel. "We needed someone who could devote full time to it.

Mrs. Williams was selected because she has the personality and background, and we're very happy with her."

Among the minority groups she deals with are blacks, Spanish-surnamed, Indians and women. She is also in contact with the Department of Rehabilitation on hiring the handicapped.

Since I've been on the job I've spent about half of my time talking to people," Gertrude says. "There isn't a typical week." Sometimes she sees three or four people a day. A week may go by with no visitors.

"People can just drop in. There are no appointments," she explains. "When someone wants to talk a problem over, it pre-empts everything else because it's important for that employee right at that moment."

Most problems are solved through talking. A few minority discrimination complaints were solved that way.

Gertrude likes to get supervisor and employee together to work problems out. She is only able to do this, however, when the employee gives his permission.

"Some people fear retaliation," she believes. "They want to talk in generalities, but they don't want to talk specifically."

GERTRUDE WILLIAMS

In a case where the employee does not want to meet with the supervisor, Gertrude's course of action is stymied. She is limited to the relief talking-it-over affords.

Mrs. Williams says she talks to more women than ethnic mfnorities.

"The majority of women at Sandia are in the secretarial-clerical area. Some are interested in getting out; many are interested in the educational benefits the Laboratory offers. That's what most of the talking is about."

She listens to complaints of people who feel they have been discriminated against, and then brings the complaint to the attention of her boss, Don Wagner. He checks the complaint to determine if it is justified and what steps can be taken.

Jobs may be re-evaluated or upgraded. Or an indivdual may be given a raise in salary at the appropriate time. Mrs. Williams says she hasn't been on the job long enough to see a complaint to its conclusion.

She has had one woman's job re-evaluated, but the results are not in yet.

She is free to roam the buildings, getting to know employees and hear their comments and complaints. She enjoys talking to them, and her friendliness and sincere interest makes it easier for them to open up.

"I don't get upset easily," the soft-spoken woman asserts. "It takes a lot to make me angry."

Market availability studies on different professions are used to determine the percentages of minority-group representation under the affirmative action plan. Sandia works out an annual plan wtih the Atomic Energy Commission.

"Everybody is looking for the minority professional person with a higher degree," Mrs. Williams states.

At the moment, budget considerations call for a hiring freeze. But the laboratory is looking to the future.

"We need to work with the schools and community groups to make them aware of what minority groups can do at Sandia," she says. Mrs. Williams has spoken to women's groups about the role of women and minorities in a changing society.

Two four-year scholarships are being offered by Sandia to graduating seniors who will major in engineering and who would otherwise be financially unable to take such a course. The recipients will work at Sandia during the summer.

The scholarships favor bright students, potential engineers with financial need, who live in Dublin, Pleasanton or Livermore. Last year's winner, Gary Dahlby, a 1974 graduate of Granada High School, is a double amputee.

Mrs. Williams, along with a personnel representative, has been contacting local high schools about this opportunity.

Cook to head summer school

PLEASANTON — David Cook, recently appointed principal at Pleasanton Elementary School, has been named summer school principal for the 1975 summer sessions.

Last summer's sessions were held at Harvest Park and Pleasanton Elementary.

In a second personnel action Tuesday, Pleasanton school district trustees named Jim Kimbell as Outdoor Education Director. This will be his second year with the program.

The first reading of two policies, on professional growth and claims for money or damages, were reviewed.

The report on the professional growth policy disclosed that nine classified empoyees in the Amador and Pleasanton school districts had taken and completed 10 semester units of credit in college, extension and adult education courses. These employees became eligible for the $300 per year increment.

As of July 1, five more employees will be eligible for the professional growth increment.

Trustees also learned that the Pleasanton district's share of the superintendent selection process has amounted to $1,793.86, well under the $2,250 appropriated by both the Amador and Pleasanton districts.

In other business, Phyllis Clark, vice-principal at Vintage Hills School, reported on parent-teacher activities at the school, noting that 40 persons have volunteered to help landscape the playground.

A "Pizza Night" is scheduled March 11 at Gay Nineties Pizza as a fund-raiser for the school.

Wine tasting party

Marty Waderkamper, Mary Ann Wagerman, Don Wadikamper and Dean Wagerman sharpen their tasting buds for wine and cheeses in preparation for the Pleasanton Newcomers Wine Tasting Party to be held on Saturday, Feb. 22, at 7:30 p.m. The evening will be highlighted with a congeniality hour with dancing and refreshments. Reservations should be made with Marty 846-4995 or Mary Ann, 462-1330.

Sandia payroll $14.7 million

Sandia Laboratories had a 1974 payroll of $14.7 million, and that was $200,000 more than the Livermore lab's 1973 wage costs.

There were 865 people on the Livermore Sandia payroll for fiscal '74, 65 more than the research center had the previous year. However the average employee list was some 100 less in 1974 than in 1973, the firm announced. Purchases for the calendar year just ended totalled $12.4 million, of which $8.2 million was spent with Bay Area commercial firms.

Sandia's assets are the property of the Energy Research and Development Administration (formerly the Atomic Energy Commission) and are used in research.

BAAPCD kills indirect source regulations

SAN FRANCISCO — Those proposed indirect source regulations, which raised a storm of controversy when they were adopted by the regional air board last December, were laid to rest on Wednesday.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board rescinded those regulations less than a week after they were adopted last December and at Wednesday's meeting officially killed them "for the forseeable future."

Specifically, the board referred the regulations back to the staff and instructed staff to keep them advised of future directives from the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The regulations, which would have gone into effect Jan. 1 if the BAAPCD had not rescinded them, would have placed prohibitive taxes on developments, such as shopping centers and sports centers, with more than 1,000 parking spaces and would have included a review procedure for large subdivisions.

The board first adopted the indirect source guidelines to forestall federal regulations which the EPA was expected to institute also on Jan. 1.

The EPA, however, backed off on that deadline pending a congressional review of proposed indirect source controls throughout the nation. That federal agency has set July 1 as a tentative date for implementation of its regulations but that deadline too may be delayed further.

Livermore Councilman Don Miller was among speakers at Wednesday's hearing who urged the board to make the regulations even more stringent and to adopt them immediately.

Candidate coffee set

LIVERMORE — School board candidate Betty Carrell has announced the last three coffees that have been scheduled so she can discuss her educational views with the public.

The schedule is:

Monday, Feb. 10: at he home of Dick and Cherry Demo, 728 Catalina Drive, 8 p.m., telephone 443-2110.

Monday, Feb. 17: at the home of Gerry Dempsey, 1061 Norfolk Road, 8 p.m., telephone 443-0830.

Friday, Feb. 21: at the home of Mary Elwood, 2256 Buckskin Road, 1:30 p.m., telephone 443-6142.

The public is invited to drop in at one of the coffees; no previous arrangements are necessary.

Policemen's ball

PLEASANTON — This year's Policemen's Ball will not be held until April 19. Watch The Times for further details.

OAKLAND — The plea hearing of David Madis, a Livermore attorney, has been continued until 9 a.m. Feb. 19 in Oakland Municipal Court.

Madis was arrested Jan. 17 and charged with attempted possession of stolen property.

Radar cruise

Coast Guard Radarman First Class Duaine H.Tewes, whose wife Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McIntosh of 6 Vineyard Ave., Pleasanton, is embarked on a training cruise aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Boutwell, homeported at Seattle.

He and his shipmates are undergoing refresher training in San Diego area, designed to test and maintain their operational readiness.

San Ramon grabs three EBAL wrestling crowns

Host Monte Vista and nearby San Ramon High combined for five individual titles in the first nine weight divisions as the EBAL wrestling tournament concluded last night in Danville.

The Wolves accounted for the largest amount of individual crowns with three while the Mustangs, Granada and Livermore each had two.

The Matadors Brett Nadeau got things underway as he edged San Ramon's Mike Sitts, 3-2, for the 98-pound crown. Nadeau nabbed the title with a reversal in the final round.

In an all-local bout, Pat Shaner notched the 106 championship, coming up with six third-round points to beat MV's Neil Halliday.

The 115 match was another battle of the cross-town rivals, but had a decidedly different ending.

Todd Rambo of Monte Vista routed his Wolf opponent, Steve Ramos 10-1 as the San Ramon grappler got only a single point; a match-opening escape.

At 123-pounds, Jim Hill of SR grabbed his schools' second individual triumph of the evening as he got off to an early lead and whipped Amador Valley's Rich Tiago, 6-4.

In a match interrupted several times for rule interpretations, Livermore's 130-pounder Ray Jenkins defeated a cross - town rival of his own, Granada's Rick McNaughton, 4-3.

The bout was one of the closest of the meet as the first 1:48 went scoreless and the final score was not realized until Jenkins was awarded a penalty point at the tail-end of the last round.

In the other Cowboys-Mats final, Keith Texeira, the pre-season EBAL favorite, ground out a rather routine 5-2 victory over the 'Pokes 136-pounder Jeff Johnson.

Roger Capri, at 141, acquired the second Livermore title with an 8-2 win over MonteVista's Curt Billingsley, despite the fact that the 'Stang opened the scoring after 1:43 with a takedown.

Bart Wooten, the overwhelming Mustang 148-ponder swamped Dublin's Kevin Buckowatz, 17-6.

Matadors stumble, then blow past San Ramon

Speed, height, muscle — and finally, the willingness to put all three to good use — gave the Granada Matadors a 60-53 basketball victory over San Ramon in Danville Friday night.

The third place Matadors, now 4-3 in East Bay Athletic League play, used their superior physical attributes to rally from a six-point deficit at halftime and wear down the last place Wolves (0-7).

Though falling behind, 14-7, in the first quarter, the Wolves had control of the defensive boards. Jim Hogeboom and Jim Kaldem kept Granada's taller front line from following teammates' outside efforts, as Hogeboom snatched eight during the first half.

Joe Fisher led SR out of its offensive slump in the second quarter, faking two Matador defenders into the air at the free throw line and leaving them for a 10-foot jumper from the lane.

Fisher scored 10 points in the period, and 18 for the game to lead all scorers.

An exchange of baskets brought the score to 18-13, Matadors, midway through the quarter. Granada was now using Lee Brennan at a high post, content to let the big men fire from the 15-18-foot range.

With 5:00 left in the half, San Ramon coach John Clawson re-inserted surprise starter Brad Blake. The junior guard, just recalled from the JV squad after joining it a month ago, had responded well to the starting call with his passing and ball handling in the first quarter.

Blake sank an eight - foot jumper, gave the SR fast break some solid direction from the middle, and scored again just 15 seconds before the first half buzzer. By then, it was 31-25, Wolves.

Granada controlled the second half tip and appeared ready to take control of its offensive board, but two times downcourt netted nothing. Then, with 7:24 left in the third quarter, Blake hit a banking lay-in with his back to the apparatus, jacking the Wolves' margin to eight, 33-25.

Scott Campbell, held to a single field goal in the first half, personally brought the Matadors to within two with a series of three jump shots from the perimeter during a span of 1:15. Campbell's spree prompted a San Ramon timeout, presumably to discuss more than how to cool Campbell's hot hand, as the Wolves' solid rebounding cup was beginning to crack

Brennan, Granada's 6-7 center, was now teaming more consistently with forwards Joey Wujek and Dave Campbell, and atthe end of three periods San Ramon held a wafer-thin 39-38 lead. Worse for the Wolves, their outside shooting against the Mats' 2-3 zone was gradually souring.

Dave Campbell hit a layin 22 seconds into the fourth quarter, and the Matadors' physical game had hit its final gear. San Ramon held on at 42-41 and 44-43, but Scott Campbell, Wujek and Brennan bossed their way to the hoop, helping their club to a 50-43 edge with 3:21 to go.

"We're a team that has to drive," Scott said afterwards.

"That's the way we seem to work best," added Brennan. "Then, if a shot is off, Joey or Dave or I usually get another chance."

Conversely, the Wolves' difficulties inside stemmed in part from a drain on their already weakened center situation. Regular starter Don Kruger hasn't completely recovered from pneumonia, and alternating him with George Pehanick produced problems of inconsistency for Clawson, who expressed his bewilderment following the game.

"It's been like this lately — we'll be in a position to win, then we'll let it slip away. I just don't know what it's going to take to turn things around.

—Ted Brock

Dons overtake fast-starting Cowboys for 58-48 EBAL win

An overflow crowd turned the atmosphere heavy and humid.

It was downright tropical, and you could look at the Livermore High gymnasium, a huge Quonset Hut, and imagine it as a World War II movie set, John Wayne's headquarters on Bataan or Iwo Jima, or any steaming jungle isle.

Out of the dense undergrowth of fans rushed Livermore, ready to turn sniper against the Amador Valley invaders.

The Cowboys picked the Dons off in the first quarter, from behind trees and rocks and spots 20-feet from the basket.

But the Dons, veteran campaigners who have earned their overseas stripes, held together and registered a 58-48 basketball victory Friday night, drawing one step closer to VE day, that being a second straight EBAL championship.

For the fourth straight game in league play, Amador found an opponent sky high for an upset. The Dons led by as little as three points at one point in the fourth quarter.

But Livermore failed to sustain a hot shooting hand and wound up Amador's sixth league victim of this season, and 18th in a row over two seasons.

"I thought we played really well," said obviously dejected Cowboy coach John Jones when the hostilities subsided. "But we shot only 38 per cent, and that's what killed us."

"Jones really had them ready to play," marvelled Amador's Skip Mohatt, drenched by the Equatorial weather in the Cowboy gym.

"The last time we played them," Mohatt recalled; "I took off the press earlier, and rotated players more than I ever have."

The Dons won that game by 28 points.

"But tonight," continued the Amador coach; "I knew I'd have to go with just my first six or seven kids the whole way."

It took four just to handle Livermore's Ed St. Clair, the 6-5 forward who topped all scorers with 20 points. He and guard Ted Wood, who had 18, thrust Livermore into a 19-12 lead after one period, combining for 15 points.

When that pair cooled down in the middle two quarters, Amador fought back into the game, taking its first lead 31 seconds from halftime on Andy Finn's short jumper at 25-23.

Finn was Amador's do-everything with 15 Points, including nine free throws, and 15 rebounds. Clair and Wood, with Groth contributing six points.

But the Cowboys played well offensively, perhaps as well

They beat Amador's press and didn't fold against close man-to-man pressure.

"It wasn't just St. Clair working for shots," Mohatt pointed out "They all worked well to get the ball to St. Clair and Wood.

"Our press wasn't bad," Mohatt added; "It's just that they were playing well against it. There were two teams out there tonight."

In Livermore's finest period of play, the first, the Cowboys threw the ball away only once. In the final period there were five turnovers however, and that, plus five Rich Hall free throws in the final three minutes, put the contest out of reach.

Hall opened the game covering Livermore's Wood. put after he popped for eight first quarter points, Jim Turner came off the bench and held Ted scoreless in the second period.

Jeff Hine opened the game opposite St. Clair, but in the course of events, Finn, Hansen and Rob Yackley all served a shift on the East Bay's second leading scorer. —Mike Zampa

Joe sparks Gordillo's

Joe Benjamin's hot hand ignited Gordillo's New York Life to a 37-33 Livermore recreation basketball victory Wednesday night over Associated Professions.

Benjamin scored 16 points to tie Associated's Tom Sherman for game honors.

The winners carved out a five-point halftime lead, and carried it the rest of the way.

Lee Quey helped out Gordillo's with 11 points. Randy Moliter added six.

Jim Brown scored 11 for AP.

Ideal Drayage received 37 points from John Cassidy and Mark Barbano, to crush Potter's Pizza, 48-37.

Cassidy had a game-high 19 points, and Barbano followed with 18. Bob Landon added nine points for the winners, who received scoring from just four players.

For Potter's, Dan Duke scored 12 points, and Pat Duke, 10.

The Turnovers played just five people, placed three in double figures, and thumped the Warriors, 51-34.

Bob Harrach paced the winners with 16 points, followed by Irv Lindemuth's 11, and 10 by Ron Stump. Teammates Warren Reid and Ray Jaeger added eight and six points.

In the only other game, Kavanagh Liquors beat Napoli Liquors, 52-44.

Kavanagh's Rocky Ford was high scorer with 16 points. Teammates Mike McIntyre and Jim Langenstein each had 10, and Rich Rollins and Jack Kavanagh scored eight apiece.

For Napoli, Walt Packard scored 14, and Carl Palla, 10.

An Editorial

When crime comes to your community

A pastor announces from the pulpit that the Sunday bulletin will no longer carry the previous week's collection receipts. "The clergy of all churches agree that this is an invitation to those who, in their desperation, will rob even the church. Having had that experience once in this church, we do no want to invite another such burglary."

The operator of a family - owned dinery tells of the "Friday night rip off," when thieves broke into his place, removed all of the meat on hand. "It will cost me $1000 to get back in business, and right now, that really hurts. I haven't taken a pay check home to my own family this week."

A hard - working Pleasanton couple has operated Golf Land in Livermore for two years. It is particularly popular among those valley residents who would like a little recreation, but who cannot afford the time or money for a full 18 holes of golf. But vandalism, burglaries and wanton destruction have just about destroyed that popular recreation facility, and left the owners wondering "how long we can keep the business going."

The burglary that strikes across town, or rips off some business house, is not an impersonal happening. It is a tragedy that strikes real people. It will soon strike you, the way things are going. The crime waves once associated with just the big city, or the tough urban neighborhood, is now very much a part of the suburban way of life. The shame here is even greater, the crime even more senseless.

While no theft can ever be justified, still there has been a kind of "social acceptance" for the purse snatchings and the bar holdups which seem to prevail in the poorer neighborhoods of the nation's largest cities. "The individual who has never had anything cannot be convinced that he does great harm to society, and to himself, by taking from another, or destroying another's property." That is what the sociologists tell us.

We wonder what explanation they offer now for the crime wave in suburbia? Who among us has such great need that we would rob our neighbor? What segment of this valley society is so deprived that we would smash our car into a building, over and over again, for reasons that seem to reflect nothing more than suburban, middle class boredom?

There is a kind of sickness in our mayhem that transcends even that explanation given the inner city's crime rate. If the "low value placed on life and property" is an answer of sorts in West Oakland, then what in God's name is the answer on the west side of Pleasanton, or just east of the Livermore municipal limits?

Before we can blame an invasion of this or that minority group. Before we charge it off to those who live in low - cost housing. Before there is such economic need to force reasonable men to desperate ends. Before we destroy ourselves by our wanton disregard for the values that make civilization worth while, and our life style particularly precious, we had best find answers to the sickness that is spreading across the valley.

Perhaps if there was a public petition demanding "an environmental impact report on crime in our town," certain city and county leaders might be inspired to act.

Greyhound gambit

Regarding "The Greyhound Gambit" by Al Fischer (2-2-75) I would like to present some information about A.B. 455, which would permit legalized greyhound racing in California, from another point of view - the inhumane aspect.

Greyhound racing was prohibited in California when Earl Warren was governor primarily because of the bad element and environment surrounding the existing tracks in California, including the one at Emeryville. Because of similar circumstances around the dog racing track in Culver City, the mayor of that city was recalled from office by an irate citizenry that was appalled at the situation in their community.

Mr. Hardie of the Golden State Greyhound Assn. makes it very clear they are endeavoring to make the "right" contacts in the California legislature to have dog racing legalized again. In fact their office is located across the street from the state capitol.

The horse racing lobby is definitely opposed to dog racing for obvious reasons but horse and dog racing cannot be equated on the same level. If dog racing is legalized in California, it will generate mass breeding programs of greyhounds to be exploited on the track for personal profit. According to the United States Humane Society approximatley 80 per cent of all litters are destroyed when found unsuitable for track purposes.

Puppies begin training when they are 3 - 4 months old. They instinctively chase by sight but are taught to develop this trait by dragging a white object such as a sheepskin on a line or pole. In many states where humane laws are lax, the dogs are taught to race by using live hares as bait. As indicated before, if they show no potential for the track during training, they are destroyed. Because these are highly - bred animals they are also hypersensitive and must be muzzled during a race to prevent dog fights.

Ironically Mayor Bradely of Los Angeles has called for a moritorium on dog breeding due to the tremendous number of animals in the area and yet it was Assemblyman Ralph of Los Angeles that initiated the dog racing bill that will encourage mass breeding of greyhounds. Los Angeles County is one of five counties being considered for dog racing tracks as is Alameda County.

The Greyhound Assn. is considering a minimum of 100 racing days in Alameda Co. and hopes for 200. As the horsemen don't want the dogs near the existing race tracks, new facilities will have to be built. Just supposing this bill is passed through the state legislature and the Livermore - Amador Valley is selected for a track site. Consider the effect on the quality of air from great numbers of cars traveling to the valley to attend these races over such an extended period of time.

There are better ways of generating additional state revenues rather than having the dogs "pay the price." If gambling is to be a source for extra revenue perhaps some consideration should be given to a state lottery which would involve only paper and people.

A.B. 455 will be heard February 18th before the Governmental Organization Committee. Please write to Committee Chairman, Assemblyman Bob Wilson, State Capitol, Sacramento 95814 and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors, 1221 Fallon St., Oakland 94611 to express your opposition to this bill. Passage of this bill will be a giant step backwards in humane legislation.

Just when you thought newspapering in this well - pressed valley was settling down to a steady war, along comes the big shift in the Oakland Trib's format. As with all things Tribial, the change is subtle. The "Oakland" is diminished, while THE TRIBUNE gets bolder. The inside info is that there will soon be a "South County" prefix to supplant that "Oakland" byline, and maybe even a "Livermore - Pleasanton" edition of the same.

Which recalls a similar venture by the Trib a decade or so ago to replate for a "South County Edition." It lasted real quick. With Bill Knowland firmly at the helm and firmly out of state and national politics, the family - owned paper adopted a regional and state pattern which gave East Bay readers an alternative — finally — to the San Francisco pubs, which were busy in the meantime trying to resolve their fiscal woes by merging the Chronicle and Examiner into one healthy advertising package. That merger cut the production crews for the one - press product, but also left the impacted unions with a few healthy bargaining points of their own. It's the way labor and management balance things out.

Trouble is, the major Bay Area publications which did not merge, and therefor did not enjoy those production cost savings, are left with much the same union contracts accepted by the Chronicle - Examiner. The Sparks' publications pretty much eased past that financial hurdle by buying up the Fremont - Newark, Livermore and San Leandro newspapers, closing the latter product entirely, and providing an attractive South County advertising package offering the major advertisers 250,000 consumers all for one big buy. (The Lesher link of newspapers was already doing just that out of a strong Walnut Creek base, but the Contra Costa side of the Bay has never been bothered with quite the same union and production problems that beset the East and West Bay Areas.)

But we digress. It is the Tribune which now finds itself in a most difficult position with all this shuffling of newspaper strengths. Unique in its two - county image, the Trib has faced the disconcerting trend in recent years of gaining paid subscribers in certain of the suburbs, while losing that much and more among its former Oakland faithful. The net result is that the Knowland newspaper might soon find itself with more subscribers outside of Oakland, than there are inside that urban core. That is either very bad, or very promising, depending on your vantage point.

The only vantage that counts in this game, and particularly in these rough times, is paid advertising. For the Tribune, that translates into "paid subscribers," since the two go hand in hand when you're income is based largely on regional and national accounts. Fortunately, the bigger these accounts, the less they are concerned with WHERE your paid subscribers reside, just as long as they are somewhere in your "total market area.".

Livermore, Newark, Moraga and Danville are all well within the Trib's market area. So, if you can't hold your readership in Oakland, then it's fair game to go after that urban exodus into the suburbs. At least that's the game plan getting plenty of thought in the Tribune Tower. If it's any comfort to Joe Knowland and friends, the same "shift into the suburbs" is well underway in no less a publishing domain than the New York Times. In fact there are few of the old - line metropolitan dailies that can escape this suburban syndrome.

The inner cities are being taken over by the lower - paid segments of society, many of whom could care less about the "big business and high society" image which the metro daily often presents. The "middle class American" is taking his purchase dollars to suburbia, and the retail stores — big and small — are tending to follow that trek. The metro dailies are having to decide how they too can identify with that shift, and that's what the Tib's image - shuffling is all about.

* * *

Meanwhile, back home, the valley's three publishing entities are doing their version of the new economic shuffle. Bodies are being moved, or removed; pages are tightened, skinnier editions are hidden behind the tabloid format (a slim six - pager suddenly becomes a fairly healthy 12 - page tab), and the word is "cut, squeeze and trim" throughout the industry. It's round 34 in the Great Newspaper War, folks. And this valley suburb, as always, has a row of seats that is almost too damned close to the action. Watch out for flying chairs.

Bombs: A moronic act

Bombings in the Bay Area have become more prevalent in recent weeks.

The act of putting together a combustible package, whether it take the form of a pipe bomb, "Molotov Cocktail" or wrapping sticks of dynamite together, is the product of a sick mind.

There is precious little that any business, governmental office or media location can do to prevent any one or group of persons intent on registering a protest by this means.

More stringent laws might be helpful but here, again, one is drawn into the "eye-for-an-eye" punishment argument, i.e. should someone found guilty of a crime that involves loss of life or massive property damage pay the penalty of life imprisonment or death? Would such a penalty act as a deterrent to bombers?

This writer believes the deterrent value would be even less than the one recently put back on the books, in this state, for capital crimes.

And there is considerable doubt if any judicial or legislative body would ever approve such severe penalties for convicted bombers.

At least not in this state, given the current leftswinging climate.

Our particular point of reference in looking at this entire question is the bombing of the KRON television studios Thursday night and an earlier one at a commercial building in San Jose.

A person or group calling itself the "New World Liberation Front" has allegedly taken "credit" for these terrorist acts.

The usual procedure is for someone to call an office near where the bomb is placed and say "a bomb is set to go off." This is usually followed by a message to the media, frequently to a Berkeley radio station with the call letters KPFA, stating the name of the abberant organization that accomplished the deed.

All of these alleged "organizations" bring to mind a comment made by Marilyn Baker, the noted SLA and Patty Hearst watcher, on television earlier this week. "If the representatives of all these radical groups held a convention they could probably meet in a phone booth."

This is begging the question, though. A method must be found to make the act of bombing, truly a terrifying thing, to express one's "revolutionary feelings", an undesirable action.

I believe something MUST be done, and soon, to deter those moronic individuals who have largely imagined gripes against one segment of society or another and circumvent the established ways of seeking changes.

Walt Hecox

She sat alone on a Saturday afternoon in a downtown Livermore (if there is a downtown Livermore) tavern, sipping a tall drink in the half light and obviously not wanting to be alone.

Probably I noticed her when I entered, I almost always see everything and every one in my immediate surroundings but frequently they register only on my subconscious.

Whatever the case my attention was currently occupied by the old acquaintance from the Livermore Lawrence Laboratory, one of the true intellectuals at the place and one who, unlike some of the lads and lassies of my acquaintance from the lab, has nothing but scorn for what he calls "fuzzy thinking liberals."

Matter of fact the fellow leans so far to the right he considers this old man a fuzzy thinking liberal, a point of view which would be hotly contested by the advocates of change who are currently directing the destiny of that confused village.

Because she was alone and lonely and perhaps because even when I whisper my voice is slightly more resonant than a bull elephant's sneeze, the lass at the end of the bar could hardly help hearing portions of our conversation.

She turned out to know my friend with the tall forehead and eventually joined in the fringe of our conversation and took over completely when he left.

She was, I discovered, a member of one of the local singles group, one of those collections of lost and searching souls who have banded together in hope of finding a companion of the opposite sex with whom they can spend some of their spare time and perhaps a lifetime.

There is some merit in such a group, I suppose. Certainly the largest such organization in the Valley has been exceptionally successful, averaging a marriage about every two weeks in its heyday.

Yet, I cannot help but wonder if the coincidence which joins a place called the Twilight Zone with a singles group might not have been divinely directed.

For more than a year, from March of 1971 until the same month in '72 I lived in a twilight zone of my own and remember vividly the the pain and torture society unwittingly inflicts on a person who has been married for most of a lifetime.

And I wonder whether or not belonging to a club which will acquaint a man or women with members of the opposite sex is the answer.

There is concrete evidence such organizations provide the answer and an end to loneliness for some who discovers that, as the song says, love can be lovlier with both feet on the ground.

On the other hand, a singles club could never work for me. I remember well my own search for an end to loneliness, of flying to Insanity Junction for a dinner date with a woman who turned out to be even more beautiful than I remembered and hard and plastic as the facade of the Hollywood office building she operates her advertising agency.

Eventually I became used to being hidden behind pillars in restaurants, watching television with Little Black Max in the wee hours while I waited for sleep to come, of unlocking the door of a cold dark house and a social life that revolved around the meaningless repartee in a wheat squeezings dispensary.

That was after I had told myself that if an end to loneliness was in sight I would have to stop searching, stop running down blind alleys in search of happiness and let my life take care of itself.

For me that was the successful approach. I found the woman with whom, God willing, I will spend the rest of my life in a journalism class at a San Ramon elementary school.

Of course it is different for others. That "wedding every two weeks" figure is impressive if the marriages were successful. A man is inclined to wonder whether, when people are trying too hard, they might not create a situation where two basically incompatible people are attempting to build a life together.

For others the singles clubs have provided just what pleasure the members get from the meetings.

Livermore's largest club was formed by a group of people who ranged generally in age from 30 to 50 years old. The women in the organization who founded it did not want competition from younger lassies who might find male companionship at their jobs or schools.

Gradually the age range in the club lowered and when it did the older folks began dropping out, not in large numbers but enough to change the complexion of the membership.

Now another club has started, small and hopefully restricted to men and women in their thirties or older.

Believe me, the search for companionship is an endless one for many folks in the valley. One singles club had an active membership of 150, a mailing list of 300, at the peak of its activity.

Some will find the end of their lonely search there, a richer, fuller life with a man or woman they will love until their date with eternity.

But others will wait in that eternal twilight zone which is theirs, the interior of a tavern, the lonely rooms of their home or apartment, the small tables in restaurant corners, waiting for a dawn which will never come, a sun which will never rise.

They sit, as the lass in the Livermore soda fountain did, waiting for the miracle which will ease their pain, for the companion who will never come, trying too hard when perhaps things would be better if they forgot the clubs and the endless search and let things happen as they will, their fate resting in the hands of Kismet.

Jim: "Does anyone ever ask you how he will know when he has become a good bridge player?"

Oswald: "Not often. Most players are too busy telling me about their partner's mistakes."

Jim: "One way to know is when other good players begin to think you are. This doesn't happen too often either. Here is a better test. You are a good player when you learn to make winning plays, that seem to go against normal good procedure."

Oswald: "I see you have a hand right here to illustrate this."

Jim: "The ordinary player grabs the first trick with the queen or jack of spades and leads a diamond. East wins with the king, leads a second spade and eventually our ordinary player winds up in the soup."

Oswald: "A slightly better player leads a club to dummy at trick two and then plays a diamond. Unless East hops up with the king the hand will come home."

Jim: "The really good player lets East hold the first trick. He wins the second one and attacks diamonds. It doesn't matter who wins the first diamond trick. There is no way for the defense to bring the spade suit home.

New help for abused children

Mistreatment of children is a matter of serious concern. The Alameda County Health Care Services Agency has a new program to deal with the problem, however.

A special telephone service will receive reports of suspected child neglect or abuse, physical or mental, or sexual molestation of any minor under the age of 18. The telephone may be reached, toll-free from the Dublin-Livermore-Pleasanton area at 846-3277, Ext. 5307.

Medical, dental, health, and educational professionals are often in a position to observe children closely. If they notice anything that leads them to suspect any abuse or molestation, they are required to report it to the appropriate law enforcement and probation agency, or public health or welfare agency. Reports are to be by telephone and in writing, within 36 hours. All this is mandated by the California Penal Code, Section 11161.5, as amended by Senate Bill 1506, June 20, 1974.

Receiving such a report, the Alameda County Health Agency is required to refer it to the law enforcement and probation Authorities, but it will also refer it to Public Health Nursing Services. Nurses will intervene on behalf of the child, assessing the home environment, counseling, guiding, and referring to a suitable preventive or educational program.

All reports are strictly confidential, and professionals mandated by the law will incur no civil or criminal liability as a result of reporting. On the contrary, failure to report is itself a misdemeanor under this law.

Health professionals who must report are physicians and surgeons, dentists, residents, interns, podiatrists, chiropractors, religious practitioners and registered nurses who are employed by public health agencies or school districts, when no M.D. is present.

School professionals required by the law to report are superintendents, supervisors of child welfare and attendance, certificate pupil personnel employes' principals and teachers.

Other professionals mandated by the law are licensed day care workers, administrators of day camps or child care centers and social works.

Real Estate's "Good News" Mark Gerton Says "Buy Now"!

We all like to hear "good news" and Mark Gerton of CENTURY 21, Pleasanton, given us his thoughts on the "good news" as it applies to the real estate market, particularly in the valley area. According to Mark there are four reasons in particular why now is a good time to buy a home Locally. "We are in a prime property area, a view shared by our banks and lending institutions," says Mark, "and there are several reasons for this."

"First, the valley's economic stability is enhanced by its easy commute distance to the major job centers which offer a diversified and solid job base. Additionally, job security is contributed to by local facilities such as the Lawrence, Sandia, Kaiser and General Electric research facilities."

"Transportation is another plus with our access to two major freeways and connecting express bus service to the BART system."

Mark points out what is, of course, obvious to all valley residents. "We are blessed with a lovely climate and beautiful scenery. Our parks, recreation, and youth sports facilities abound. We are close to cultural centers, famous universities, airports and the beautiful ocean. And not least of all," Mark goes on, "our people are stimulating, progressive, and intelligent"

Financing is naturally a very important aspect of home buying, and Mark has some interesting and heartening comments about this. "Since October of 1974 the interest rates for conventional loans has dropped approximately 1 1/4 per cent This may not sound like much, but it makes a difference of $35.57 in the monthly house payment, and, as far as qualifying for a loan, a prospective home buyer can now qualify for the same $40,000 loan with an income of $120 per month less than in October of '74."

Mark reminds us that VA and FHA loan rates have dropped a full 1 per cent in the past three months. "FHA has increased the maximum loan to $45,000 (from $33,000). Also, VA has made the reinstatement of the Veterans' eligibility much easier to obtain if the veteran has previously used his entitlement. Previously, the veteran had to have a compelling reason, such as job transfer or illness to get a second VA loan. Now, any veteran can get a second VA loan provided his first loan was paid off when the property was sold."

To emphasize why investment in a home in a good location can help to combat inflation Mark explains that of most importance is "leverage." This simply means that the property will increase in value on the entire current value even though most of us usually invest only 10 per cent to 20 per cent in a down payment. The higher the inflation rate the greater the percentage of net increase in equity to the property owner. Currently, home prices are increasing around 10 per cent annually (keeping pace with inflation), but even if they should drop to a more reasonable 6 per cent ( as it was until three years ago) the homeowner would have a sound, well - paying investment."

"For example," Mark continues, "a home purchased for $40,000 which is sold five years later (and using the conservative 6 per cent annual increase in value) would be worth about $53,000. Assuming that the owner had originally paid 10 per cent down and 4 per cent closing costs, his original investment was $5,600. Let's also assume that at the time of the later sale the seller incurred 8 per cent selling expenses, or approximately $4,200. He would then net around $8,800 on his original investment of $5,600. This amounts to $1,760 per year on the original investment or a return of 31.4 per cent. This does not even take into consideration the other monetary advantages, such as income tax advantages, payoff of the loan balance or depreciation (if the property is used as a rental). This is leverage — a 31.4 per cent return annually on the original investment. What other investment can provide this kind of return with the multitude of other benefits accruing from home ownership, such as stability, and a place where one can feel like he has "roots."

We couldn't agree more with Mark's concluding statement that "the home is the basis of a sound family life, and there is no better time to buy a home than now!"
